South Gilmore corridor improvements completed

Begun in late 2011, the improvements to the South Gilmore/Winton Road Corridor have been completed. The project's focal point is a new gateway bridge over I-275, providing both Fairfield and neighboring Forest Park with a new presence on the interstate. In addition to increased northbound lane capacity, the $10.4 million project included new sidewalks, retaining walls and a new asphalt surface for one of Fairfield's busiest intersections, which provides access to more than 400 businesses with more than 8,000 employees within one mile of the corridor.

Construction itself provided a challenge to work crews, who maintained traffic during construction. Perhaps the biggest challenge was the coordination of a project that was funded by the Ohio Department of Transportation, Ohio Kentucky Indiana Regional Council of Governments, Ohio Public Works Commission, the City of Fairfield, the City of Forest Park, Cincinnati Water Works and Hamilton County.

Safety improvements planned for southbound US 127

An estimated 16,700 vehicles per day utilize US 127 (Pleasant Avenue) at John Gray Road. A number of rear-end collisions along that stretch of road has prompted plans to add a center lane and an extended left turn lane for traffic heading southbound between Augusta Boulevard and John Gray Road.

Work is expected to begin in March 2015, but before roadwork can begin crews will undertake storm sewer improvements and utility adjustments.

Once utility improvements are completed, road construction can begin, complete with guardrail improvements and new pavement markings.

Traffic will be maintained during construction, although motorists should expect lane closures and some delays. The Ohio Department of Transportation will pay 90 percent of the estimated $350,000 cost for the improvements, with the City of Fairfield paying 10 percent of the construction costs.

Share the road with bicyclists

With the high cost of gasoline, a concern for the environment and a growing interest in maintaining healthy lifestyles, more and more people are using bicycles to get around. The increasing popularity of cycling presents a critical need for motorists to remain alert and respect the rights of those peddling to their destination.

Cyclists have a legal right to use the roadway, so motorists must regard them with the same rights and respect as another motorist driving a car. Drivers are required by law to allow ample space when approaching and passing a bicycle, signal when passing them, and yield to them when required, such as entering an intersection.

Just as motorists must observe traffic laws, so must bicyclists. Those on a bicycle should ride as far to the right on the roadway as possible, unless it is unsafe or impractical. Of course, bicyclists may need to move to the center of a lane when preparing to make a left turn. As a rule of thumb, the International Police Mountain Bike Association recommends allowing a three-foot "wobble" lane so that a cyclist can maintain balance and avoid obstacles in the roadway that may not be seen by the motorist.

Cyclists should always wear a helmet and proper attire so that they are visible, ride in a predictable manner, and always remain alert. Just as required by an automobile, bicycles are also required to have working lights and an adequate brake.

Applebee's completes major renovations

In early June, Applebee's Neighborhood Grill & Bar completed a major interior and exterior renovation to its Fairfield location on Pleasant Avenue. The restaurant, located near the entrance to Village Green, has served Fairfield since May 2002.

The remodeled interior includes warmer color tones and a more contemporary design. Local photos and murals highlighting area school teams and local community groups replaced more general pop-culture artifacts, giving the restaurant a neighborhood feel. The most noticeable exterior change is the oversized contemporary awnings

As part of the remodel process, Applebee's auctioned its older décor and memorabilia. More than $3,600 from the auction was donated to the Make-A-Wish Foundation of Ohio.

Senior leaders of Pacific Manufacturing and Takumi Stamping recently visited Fairfield from Japan. During their visit, they visited with Mayor Steve Miller and other City officials to provide an update on business operations for the two companies.

Takumi Stamping, which stamps metal auto parts for Toyota, recently finished a $3.6 million

Pacific Manufacturing produces a variety of auto parts in its three buildings along Seward Road. It is planning an expansion of its aluminum scrap facility later this year, among other investments. Total Pacific employment exceeds 600 people. 🌐

Smoke on the Mountain

BOOK BY CONNIE RAY

CONCEIVED BY ALAN BAILEY

MUSICAL ARRANGEMENTS BY MIKE CRAVER AND MARK HARDWICK

PRESENTED BY CINCINNATI CHRISTIAN SCHOOLS

Smoke on the Mountain tells the story of a Saturday Night Gospel Sing at a country church in North Carolina's Smoky Mountains in 1938. Pastor Oglethorpe, the young and enthusiastic minister of Mount Pleasant Baptist Church, has enlisted the Sanders Family in his efforts to bring his tiny congregation into "the modern world." Between songs, each family member "witnesses" — telling a story about an important event in their life. Though they try to appear perfect in the eyes of a congregation who wants to be inspired by their songs, one thing after another goes awry and they reveal their true — and hilariously imperfect — natures.

A safe drop-off offered for household hazards

It may seem innocent enough. A resident cleaning out the garage tosses some old, broken pool chlorine tablets into the trash. During that same weekend, a neighbor discards a half-full can of old motor oil. Neither item is healthy for the environment, but in the back of a garbage truck, a combination of the two can result in a violent and potentially deadly interaction. The scenario underscores the importance of properly and responsibly disposing of such household hazards. The best policy is to buy only an amount of a potentially hazardous product that is needed, avoiding the long term storage that creates a potential for injury to occupants or to firefighters who may be called to a fire.

To provide residents with a safe way to discard household hazardous waste, the Butler County Solid Waste District offers a free disposal program from 2 to 7 p.m. every Thursday (June to September). The collection is at Environmental Enterprises, located at 10163 Cincinnati-Dayton Road in West Chester.

What to do with other items...

Household hazardous waste isn't the only collection of items that can be harmful to people or the environment. There are plenty of other things around the house that can be more responsibly discarded than hiding them in the trash can. Here's a round-up of where to take unwanted household items:

Electronics

Unless noted, televisions are not usually accepted.

Habitat for Humanity ReStore

896 Fairview Avenue • Hamilton • 893-1102

Accepted Items: Computers (working/non-working), computer monitors and peripherals. Televisions not accepted.

Goodwill/Easter Seals of Miami Valley

3526 Towne Blvd. • Middletown • 423-0843

Accepted Items: Computers and monitors.

Ohio Valley Goodwill/Fairfield

4605 Dixie Hwy. • Fairfield • 939-0020

Accepted items: All sizes of televisions except console TVs (must be in working condition & have remote), CPUs, computer monitors, computer peripherals, DVDs, VCRs, video game consoles, old stereo equipment, cell phones, cordless devices, etc.

Best Buy

Bridgewater Falls • Hamilton • 737-3060

Accepted Items: All CPUs, computers, monitors, computer peripherals, cell phones, DVD players, etc. Televisions (working/non-working) in the following sizes are accepted: traditional cathode ray tube televisions (up to 32 inches diagonally measured) and plasma and LCD televisions (up to 60 inches).

Staples

Area Staples stores also accept outdated/unwanted computers and computer equipment for recycling at no charge. Call the store for information.

Latex Paint

Latex paint can be allowed to air dry, then be disposed in regular trash. The introduction of kitty litter or saw dust will speed the drying of latex paint. If several cans are no longer wanted, drop them to Matthew 25 Ministries for reuse or reblending. Call 793-6258 or visit www.m25m.org for more information.

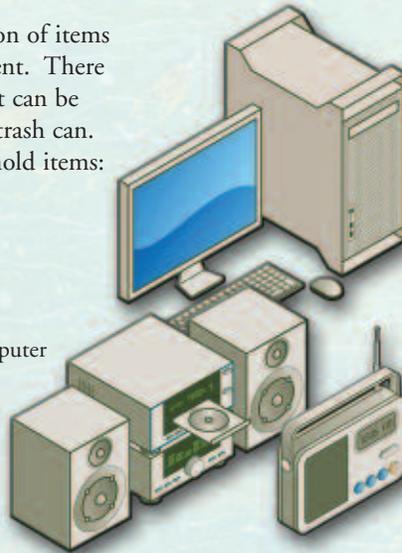

Prescription Medication

Unwanted or expired medication can be dropped off at the Fairfield Police Department (Pleasant Avenue and Nilles Road).

Freon Appliances

Duke Energy customers can receive a $30 rebate for calling (tollfree) 1-855-398-6200 to arrange for freon extraction and pick-up of a working freezer or refrigerator.

Unwanted Appliances will also pick-up any freon-based appliance without charge. To arrange pick-up, call (tollfree) 1-888-886-9268.

Items accepted

Products collected at the weekly program include paint, pesticides, herbicides, household and automotive batteries, automobile fluids, wood varnish, stains, lacquer, propane tanks, acids, pool chemicals, mercury thermometers, oils, compact fluorescent and fluorescent bulbs, adhesives and antifreeze.

Items NOT accepted

This program does not accept latex paint (see story at left), radioactive material, medical waste, explosives/ammunition, smoke detectors, tires, yard waste, electronics (computers/televisions), garbage, roofing material, appliances, heating oil/fuel tanks, unmarked cylinders, fireworks/gun powder or prescription drugs (see story at left).

Wastewater upgrade to promote job growth

Business is the life's blood to any city. Companies provide jobs to workers who, in turn, pay income taxes that fund the many services that a city provides. As businesses grow, new businesses provide services that also create more jobs, fueling a robust local economy. Making sure that a community's infrastructure is adequate is paramount to a thriving business district. As businesses in the area of Seward Road continue to grow, utilities need to expand to accommodate their operations. In past years, road improvements along Seward Road improved safety. Continued growth has prompted the need to increase wastewater flows.

Work will soon begin on Seward Road that will increase the flow capacity of the wastewater system. The work will focus on a lift station on Seward Road that elevates — or “lifts” — wastewater so that gravity can maintain a natural flow along existing lines to a wastewater treatment plant.

The work will increase peak flows from the current 1.8 million gallon per day capacity to 2.6 million gallons per day. The new equipment will not only expand pump capacity, but will include an emergency generator for use during power outages.

The cost for improving the lift station is projected to be $260,000. Much of the cost will be paid by a $100,000 economic development grant from Duke Energy.

How a Lift Station works

In actuality, a lift station is a pumping system that employs massive pumps to move wastewater through a sewage collection system. The system is often called a lift station since sewage A flows into and is stored in an underground pit, commonly known as a wet well. The wet well is equipped with B electrical instrumentation to detect the level of sewage present. When the sewage level rises to a predetermined point, a C powerful pump is activated to “lift” the sewage upward through a D pressurized pipe system called a sewer force main or rising main where the sewage is discharged into E a gravity line. From here the cycle starts all over again until the sewage reaches a treatment plant.

The City of Fairfield operates 12 lift stations throughout the City. The stations ensure that wastewater continuously flows along 175 miles of sanitary lines serving residents and businesses. Eleven of the stations handle sewage requiring treatment. One station on State Route 4 at St. Clair Avenue strictly handles rainwater to prevent flooding at the railroad underpass. All but one lift station is powered by emergency generators. The remaining station is a smaller facility that can be powered by a portable generator if necessary.

Use the heat to prep for cold!

It may be hot outside now, but you know winter will be here all too soon. A little work now can avoid major repairs later, not to mention significant savings on energy bills. To help with your seasonal check-list, here are a few areas to consider:

Heating System

- Call an HVAC professional to service your furnace and clean your duct system.
- Most standard furnace filters should be changed monthly.
- Consider a programmable thermostat.
- It's easy to forget to turn down the heat when you leave the house. Most households shell out 50 to 70 percent of their energy budgets on heating and cooling, so why pay for what no one uses? For every degree you lower your thermostat you will save between 1 and 3 percent on your heating bill.

Check Your Fireplace

- Cap your chimney top to keep out birds.
- Have your chimney professionally cleaned.
- Inspect the fireplace damper to ensure proper opening and closing.
- Check for any openings in the mortar joints in the firebox, tuck point when necessary.

Check Exterior, Doors & Windows

- Inspect exterior windows and doors for leaks, drafts and glass breakage.
- Simple leaks can sap home energy efficiency by 5 to 30 percent a year, according to the U.S. Department of Energy. That means it pays to seal up gaps with caulking and weatherstripping.
- The simple act of installing a storm door can increase energy efficiency by 45 percent.

Inspect Roof, Gutters & Downspouts

- Check flashing to alleviate water from entering the home.
- Replace worn roof shingles
- Clean out gutters and downspouts;

consider installing leaf guards and also downspout extensions to divert water away from the home.

Prevent Plumbing Freezes

- Pay less for hot water by insulating pipes. Doing so can also help decrease the chance of pipes freezing, which can be very costly. Check to see if your pipes are warm to the touch. If so, they are good candidates for insulation.
- You can get pre-slit pipe foam at most hardware stores. Cut it to size lengthwise and fasten in place with duct tape. Ideally, choose the insulation with the highest R-value, which is a measure of its heat-blocking power. Pipe insulation is often R-3. Batt styles that wrap around the pipe offer an R-7 rating, a higher heat blocking power.
- Remove and drain all garden hoses from outside faucets.
- Locate your water main in the event you need to shut it off in an emergency.
- Leave your heat set at 55 degrees if you go on vacation to minimize the potential of freezing.

Install Smoke/CO₂ Alarms

- For new installations smoke alarms are required to be installed in a variety of areas. Smoke alarms are required in each sleeping room, outside each separate sleeping area in the immediate vicinity of each bedroom, and on each additional floor of the home, including basements.

- Install a carbon monoxide detector near gas appliances (furnace, water heater, and fireplace).
- Test smoke alarms and carbon monoxide detectors to make sure they work.

Turn Down Your Water Heater!

- While many conventional water heaters are set to 140 degrees by installers, most households don't require water to be so hot. (It's even dangerous in households with very young children who may unknowingly turn on the hot water faucet.) As a result, homeowners end up paying for hot water that just sits in the tank, slowly cooling, only to be heated again and again. Lowering the temperature to 120 degrees reduces water heating costs by 6 to 10 percent.

Prepare an Emergency Kit

- Purchase indoor candles and matches for use during a power outage.
- List important phone numbers near your phone or in your phone book.
- Store bottled water and non-perishable food (for you and any pets in your home). Also have blankets and a first aid kit in an easy-to-access and dry location.
- Prepare and practice an evacuation plan.

Storable pools must be removed

The City of Fairfield requires that storable pools must be removed from service and placed in storage between November 1 and April 1. Storable pools are those that are constructed on or above ground and can hold water to a maximum of 42 inches deep, or a pool with nonmetallic, molded polymeric walls or inflatable fabric wall regardless of dimensions.

Seniors: Beware of these three scams

Thieves today are more than just bold and brazen.

They have evolved into savvy criminals whose smooth talk can convince even the most guarded victim to voluntarily hand over large quantities of money without even making face-to-face contact. Increasingly these thieves are targeting senior citizens who have saved their entire lives for their retirement.

All they need these days is a telephone.

Fairfield Police have taken note of three telephone scams that have cost trusting local seniors thousands of dollars. Here is how they work:

Grammy Scam: Someone calls and pretends to be a grandchild or other relative in distress. Usually, the caller claims to be travelling and have been arrested out of country or are travelling out of state and are involved in an automobile accident. The caller tearfully asks that money — usually thousands of dollars — be wired to them to help them.

IRS Scam: The caller (who often has an American name, but speaks in a noticeable foreign accent) reports that government tax money is owed and demands immediate payment. Typically, the caller claims to be from the IRS and uses a telephone number with a Washington, D.C., area code. The caller demands personal information, including a bank account number or credit card, to pay the debt. The IRS does not make such contact with someone owing money, but sends letters.

Jamaican Lottery Scam: Using a phone number in Jamaica, a caller offers congratulatory news that the call recipient has won the Jamaican Lottery. To collect the winnings, the winner must first send money to begin the transfer process of the lottery winnings. Often, the caller suggests going to a store like Walmart to purchase a pre-paid Visa car, then return the call with the numbers from the card. Sadly, that's the last ever heard from them.

Stop the Thieves in their tracks by following these tips:

- Always be suspicious! If it sounds too good to be true, it probably is.
- Ask questions and get information from the caller. If the call is from a legitimate organization, the caller should have no problem answering questions.
- Don't make hasty decisions. Don't allow high pressure tactics to result in immediate action. Think things through before giving the caller anything, especially personal information or bank accounts. Discuss the call with a family member.
- Never share personal information unless you are absolutely sure who is asking for it. Be suspicious of any incoming call or any telephone number that may have been provided.
- Never "pay to play." Winners never have to provide money up front.

TORNADO! Would your family be ready?

Summer polar vortexes, lightning storms, flooding rains. Weather patterns across the nation have reached extreme levels. So, a summer tornado is never out of the question. With the extreme weather patterns of late, some systems can produce massive cells a mile wide or swarms of multiple twisters that devastate entire communities. The trend has prompted the National Weather Service to begin posting rare, but ominous warnings of "mass devastation" when a storm shows extraordinary strength.

Knowing what to do is extremely important as tornados speed across the landscape. Twisters can rake across the landscape at 70 miles an hour, leaving little time to react.

Residents are encouraged to develop an action plan now by considering the following tips:

AT HOME: Go to the basement and get under a sturdy object, such as a workbench. If there is no basement, a small room in the middle of the house (a closet or bathroom) is best. Always stay away from outside walls and windows.

AT WORK OR SCHOOL: Stay away from large open rooms like auditoriums and gymnasiums, and rooms with windows. Lie low with hands covering the back of your head and neck to minimize potential injury.

IN A SHOPPING MALL: Go to a designated shelter area or to the center of the building on a low level. Stay away from large open rooms and windows. Never seek shelter in cars in the parking lot.

ON THE ROAD: Never try to outrun a tornado that is posing an immediate threat. Park your vehicle and seek shelter. If a sturdy structure is not readily available, find a ditch or low spot in the ground. Stay away from cars and trees, which may become airborne.

IN GENERAL: Always be mindful of the unbelievable force of high winds. Even small objects can become deadly missiles. Stay away from windows or exterior walls. Try to locate yourself next to a sturdy structure or object which could provide structural support to protect you from heavy falling debris. Lie down, preferably under a sturdy object, and use your hands to cover your head and neck to minimize injury.

THE AFTERMATH: Emergency help usually arrives within minutes. Keep family members together. If possible, wait for help to begin rescue efforts. Stay out of damaged buildings, which may collapse without warning. Be mindful of a potential gas leak, even in buildings without heavy damage. Never use a match or open flame device to check darkened areas; instead, use a flashlight.

When traffic lights are dark

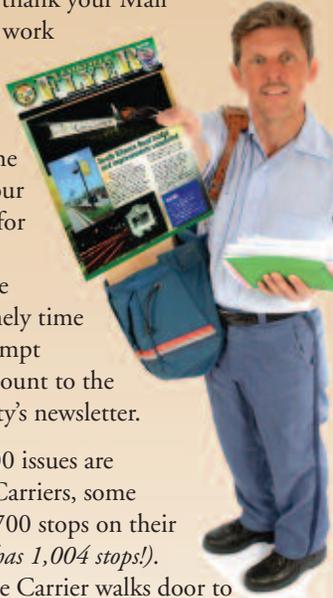

While traffic signals at many of Fairfield's busiest intersections have back-up systems for power failures, motorists are reminded about Ohio law as it relates to an intersection where traffic lights are dark from a power outage. An intersection that has an inoperable signal becomes an all-way stop, with motorists coming to a complete stop and alternating right of way for proceeding through the intersection.

Failure to treat a darkend traffic signal as an all-way stop can result in a moving violation citation.

Thanks Mail Carriers!

If you are getting timely delivery of your Fairfield Flyer, thank your Mail Carrier. A lot of work goes into each issue, but the most important work is getting the publication in your mailbox in time for events to be well publicized. Some events are extremely time sensitive and prompt delivery is paramount to the success of the City's newsletter.

More than 19,000 issues are delivered by 33 Carriers, some with more than 700 stops on their route (one route has 1,004 stops!). In some cases, the Carrier walks door to door and carries the weight and the bulk of all these newsletters. Thanks to each Carrier who wrestles with the bins and bins of this publication — and other City mailings — to ensure timely delivery!
